

Green Party of New York 2006 Peace Slate

Malachy McCourt for Governor

www.malachyforgovernor.com

Malachy is a best-selling author, well-known actor and professional public speaker. He has been an on-air host on New York City's top radio stations for the past 35 years and has won awards from the New York Civil Liberties Union, New York magazine, and the City Club.

"This year, vote for life and hope in New York. Vote for universal healthcare. Vote for new job growth by making New York the world leader in clean, green, renewable energy."

Alison Duncan for Lt. Governor

www.alisonduncan.org

Alison is an audiovisual technician and pre-med student. She is active in her union and works for LGBT rights. Alison currently serves on the Executive Committee of the Green Party of New York. She grew up in Schenectady and now lives in New York City.

"New York's children need and deserve a better educational system---one that invests in students according to their needs, not according to their parents' tax bracket."

Howie Hawkins for US Senate

www.hawkinsforsenate.org

Howie, a former Marine, was a co-founder of the anti-nuclear Clamshell Alliance in 1976, and the Green Party in the United States in 1984. Howie currently serves on the Green National Committee. A Teamster, Howie works unloading trucks at UPS in Syracuse.

About the Candidates

Howie Hawkins (cont)

Howie's articles on independent politics, cooperative economics and social theory have appeared in many publications.

"To stop the death and destruction in Iraq, we have to withdraw all U.S. troops right now—not next year. Then we need to cut military spending in half, and use the money to rewire the world for safe, clean, renewable energy."

Julia Willebrand for Comptroller

www.juliaforcomptroller.org

Julia is a long-time college teacher and environmental activist. She was the Green Party candidate for Mayor of New York in 2000 and is co-chair of the International Committee of the US Green Party. She is a third-generation Brooklynite.

"The state comptroller manages $140 billion in state pension funds. I will invest the money in companies that protect the environment, deal honestly with consumers, and do the right thing for working people."

Rachel Treichler for AG

www.voterachel.org

Rachel has practiced law in New York since 1982. In addition to her law practice, Rachel sells books online at ecobooks.com. She lives on an organic farm in Hammondsport in the Finger Lakes region. In 2002, she ran as a Green Party candidate for Congress.

"The democratic principles upon which this country was founded require that each person have an equal voice in decision making. As Attorney General, I will protect our rights to vote and our rights to free and fair elections."

Our Green Vision

The Green Party platform is based on ten key values adopted by US Greens in 1984.

The Ten Key Values

Ecological Responsibility

Social and Economic Justice

Grassroots Democracy

Nonviolence

Decentralization

Community-based Economics

Feminism

Respect for Diversity

Personal and Global Responsibility

Future Focus

Front Row: Alison Duncan, Malachy McCourt, Rachel Treichler, Second Row: Howie Hawkins, Julia Willebrand

About the Green Party

The Green Party has its origins in the environmental, civil rights, anti-war, anti-nuclear and feminist movements of the 1960s and 1970s. Today there are Green parties and political movements in more than 90 countries.

In 1986, the first Green Party candidate stood for election in the United States. In 2004, 433 Green candidates ran in 42 states. Seventy Greens were elected. As of March 2006, 226 Greens hold elected office in 28 states and DC. This growth signals the Green Party's evolution into an increasingly strong political force.

The Green Party of New York obtained ballot status in 1998 after organizing in this state since the late 1980s. We lost ballot status in 2002, but won a federal court order in 2005 requiring the Board of Elections to continue allowing New Yorkers to enroll in the Green Party.

Despite our lack of ballot status, three Greens were elected to office in New York in 2005: Mike Sellers was elected Mayor of Village of Cobleskill, Mary Jo Long was elected to the Town Council of Afton, and Steven Krulick was re-elected a Trustee of the village of Ellenville.

They join Greens Rome Celli elected to the Brighton School Board in 2004, and Jason West and Rebecca Rotzler, elected Mayor and Deputy Mayor of the village of New Paltz in 2003.

2006 is the first opportunity the Green Party has had since 2002 to regain ballot status and become an official political party in New York. To become qualified to place our candidates on the ballot for the next four years, Malachy McCourt, our party's candidate for governor needs to receive at least 50,000 votes in November. We are confident that Malachy has the broad appeal to win substantially more votes than that number.

Our Green Vision

Sustainable Economics

Societies that Conserve

Long-term Thinking

Locally-run, Small-Scale Institutions

Egalitarian, Cooperative Values

Meeting the Needs of People and Earth

Ethical, Careful Use of Some Technology

Politics as Usual

Uncontrolled Development

Societies that Consume

Short-term Thinking

Distantly-run, Global Institutions

Authoritarian, Competitive Values

Serving the Greed of Industry

Blind Acceptance of All Technology

Yes! I want to help build the Green Party in New York!

Green Party of New York
James Maceda, Treasurer
616A Larchmont Acres
Larchmont, NY 10538

I want to help petition. Send me info.

Here's my contribution of $10 $25 $50

Name: _____

Address: _____

City, State, Zip: _____

Telephone: _____

Email: _____

*Make checks payable to the Green Party of New York
Paid for by the Green Party of New York, labor donated.*

Vote

Green Party 2006

New York State

Malachy McCourt
GOVERNOR

Alison Duncan
LT. GOVERNOR

Julia Willebrand
COMPTROLLER

Rachel Treichler
ATTORNEY GENERAL

Howie Hawkins
US SENATE

"I will not vote for the lesser of two evils and I will not settle for just hollerin'. That's why I decided to run for political office on behalf of the Green Party." —Malachy McCourt

www.gpnys.org

Peace Justice Ecology Democracy